6 Poems for the 6th Day of Christmas

Written by Halinka Rajchel, Read On Nottingham Literacy Champion

1. Christmas Past

Shoppers busy, rushing around Buying last minute gifts Checking names on cards Finalising Christmas lists Wines, spirits, beers, soft drinks Hairdresser appointments booked More food and drinks ordered Nothing can be overlooked Presents carefully wrapped then hidden They must be out of sight Christmas tree decorated, candles ready And every indoor and outdoor light Carol concerts, works parties attended Sparkling Christmas jumpers worn Nativity plays with packed audiences Admiring stable where Jesus was born Big family gathering around the banquet It's the Christmas dinner Later, children playing new electronic games Everyone's a winner Toddler bored with Santa's toy Preferring the giant cardboard box Adults moaning about Aunty Mary's Traditional gift of woollen socks Twelve days nearly over Thank goodness holiday abroad has been arranged Big sales in shops Unwanted Christmas presents have been exchanged Discarded wrapping paper Uneaten food dumped in the overflowing bin Later this year, all these commercial And wonderful traditions will again begin.

2. Christmas Present

Some shops are closed or with reduced hours Hard times are ahead Businesses have disappeared, jobs gone An unknown world many dread Christmas is coming, decorations and lights ready Is Santa feeling well? Many questions posed Can he leave his land and travel during Noel? Essential shopping has to be done Remember to wear masks in the shop Presents no longer important Social gatherings and luxuries have had to stop Family, key workers and the vulnerable are our priority, Not to be taken for granted Whilst many children and adults Have become increasingly disenchanted. A traditional Christmas dinner Our immediate family still enjoys And at home sings carols, plays games Appreciates last year's toys No woollen socks this Christmas From our beloved Aunty Mary But on our family walk We will definitely visit the cemetery Holidays abroad? Most certainly out of the question Local countryside venues Becoming an alternative suggestion During the twelve days this Christmas We are poignantly reminiscing Dreaming of previous year's activities Which we are missing.

3. Christmas Future

Charities supported and greatly appreciated Cherishing priceless times with loved ones *H*oly time for many, whatever our ages Helping those who need our help Roast Christmas dinner with all the trimmings and puddings Remembering those who are no longer with us Invitations hopefully extended to families and friends Inspired individuals inspiring others Scents of candles – frankincense and myrrh Stable, sheep and shepherds *T*raditional carols, songs and family games Thanking those who deserve our thanks Mary and Joseph; Magi visiting Jesus in the manger Making an improvement to our world Angels, Christmas tree, lights and decorations Advent calendar, looking forward to celebrations Santa with his reindeer and elves Star of Bethlehem

4. Snow- (acrostic poem)

Sparkling snowflakes gently fall, at last a smooth soft carpet waits for us

No longer can the grass or path be seen

Outside becomes an exciting place for some to enjoy

Whizzing snowballs land next to pretty shoe patterns, soon a snowman greets us.

5. SANTA (acrostic)

Santa, did you get my letter? Are your reindeer ready to come? North Pole is very cold, mummy told me Take care on your journey And I hope your elves will come too.

6. WINTER (Acrostic) also read in video

Wintry days and nights but candles and twinkling lights cheer us up Invitations and cards have been posted, presents wrapped Nativity characters dressed up: Mary, Joseph, shepherds, kings, donkey, sheep Trees from markets and forests, now displayed in our homes Evergreen wreaths and garlands appear on our doors Reindeer preparing to go with Santa on their long awaited trips
