QUOTES

INTERNATIONAL: CANADIAN ZOO IN TROUBLE AFTER TAKING BEAR OUT FOR ICE CREAM

The zoo's owner, Doug Bos, said:

"We made a mistake. I'm embarrassed about it. Every time we take an animal off the property, we're supposed to notify the Fish and Wildlife department, send them an email, and we forgot to do that. This proves that there are strict regulations. When you make a mistake, you have to pay for it."

Serena Bos, a bear trainer at the zoo, said:

"There was never any public present. It was done long before the Dairy Queen even opened. Berkley is a captive bear, so not a wild bear in any way."

The Fish and Wildlife department said:

"The charges are because of the failure of the park to notify us prior to the bear leaving the zoo"

SPORT: WOMEN IN IRAN DISGUISE AS MEN TO SNEAK INTO FOOTBALL MATCH

Zeinab Perspolisi, who disguised herself as a man, said:

"This is the third time I've done this. Each time I use a different disguise. I Google for different make-up tutorials and learn new ways. I've only been stopped by security once. Our goal is to keep doing this until they allow all women to go."

Gianni Infantino, the head of FIFA, said:

"I have spoken to the Iranian president who informs me that women would soon be allowed into sports stadiums in the country."

BBC News said:

"Although there's no official ban on women going to sporting events in Iran, they are often refused entry into the stadiums. Women have been punished for attending games in the past."

NATIONAL: SCHOOL BOY CARRIES BOOKS TO SCHOOL IN A MICROWAVE

Jacob Ford, the 17-year-old who used the microwave to carry his books, said:

"First of all, I wrote a 3000 word document. After that was ignored, I started the next stage of the peaceful protest. On Monday, I carried my books in a wicker basket and on Tuesday, in a saucepan. Wednesday was sandwich bags with a padlock. Thursday was the backend of a lawnmower and Friday was the microwave. Paying for a new bag which fits the school's updated policy is outrageous."

The school said:

"Younger students have been injured because of really large bags being carried on shoulders. Therefore, bags of any size may be used to bring books and kit to and from school, but bags are not allowed in lessons during the day."

Headteacher Steven Wilkinson said:

"The facts that have been presented do not give the full picture of this story. The student has behaved in a very inappropriate way."
