

Five top tips for spotting fake news

1. Think about who has shared the news – check that the story is written by someone that you trust and if not, find out more about the author first.
2. Look at the audience – think about who the story is meant for and the reasons why it has been written.
3. Check the information – try to find the same story from another source and check that the facts are the same.
4. Look carefully at the text and pictures – check that the story makes sense and look closely at the photos or videos.
5. Think about how you feel – if you think the story is funny or if it worries you in any way, think about whether the facts are all true. It is possible that the author is biased or is trying to make you believe something that is false.

Five top tips for spotting fake news

1. Think about who has shared the news – check that the story is written by someone that you trust and if not, find out more about the author first.
2. Look at the audience – think about who the story is meant for and the reasons why it has been written.
3. Check the information – try to find the same story from another source and check that the facts are the same.
4. Look carefully at the text and pictures – check that the story makes sense and look closely at the photos or videos.
5. Think about how you feel – if you think the story is funny or if it worries you in any way, think about whether the facts are all true. It is possible that the author is biased or is trying to make you believe something that is false.

All text © The National Literacy Trust 2017

Fake news and critical literacy: top tips for primary schools

T: 020 7587 1842 W: www.literacytrust.org.uk Twitter: @Literacy_Trust Facebook: nationalliteracytrust